

CLAIMS

INDEPENDENT CLAIM

I claim that this invention is unique to the backpack industry, to the fact that this method or process of making a backpack so which that the backpack will carry a skateboard underneath the backpack. See drawing 1A.

DEPENDENT CLAIMS

CLAIM 1.

I claim that a backpack can have a flap attached or sewn into the bottom of the backpack so that the flap will be used to secure a skateboard to the bottom of the backpack. See drawing 2A.

CLAIM 2.

I claim that a backpack can have one or more straps or belts attached to a backpack in a manner so that the straps will be used to secure a skateboard to the bottom of the backpack. See drawing 2B.

CLAIM 3.

I claim that a backpack can have one or more sleeves, pouches, or pockets attached to either end of the bottom of the backpack in a manner so that these sleeves, pouches, or pockets will be used to secure a skateboard to the bottom of the backpack. See drawing 2C.